LAKE THE SCENE OF BIG BANQUET

Party of Distinguished Women Guests of Honor in Salt Lake.

COUNTRIES REPRESENTED.

Practically Every Civilized Land Represented by Delegates Who Are Traveling Across Continent.

The big pavilion at Saltair was a world center last night. In it nearly a hundred women, representing almost every civilized country on the globe met and conversed, laved in the salt sea, exulted in the sunset, and partook of the banquet provided by the women of Salt Lake with every expression and appearance of genuine enjoyment. The responses to toasts made by the visitors teemed with expressions of sincere appreciation of the efforts of Salt Lake women for their entertainment, and that more were not heard was due and that more were not heard was due to the fact that the late hour and the fatigue of the guests necessitated a cut in the program, which had on its list of speakers many more of the distinguished women present.

The arrival of the train at an earlier hour than scheduled caused some misunderstanding at first among the committees, but a large number of women representing various local societies, and all classes met at the depot and welcomed the guests. The early hour of their arrival made possible the ar-rangement of an organ recital before the lake trip, a more convenient hour than the early morning one for today as before planned. At the Tabernacle, through the courtesy of the first presidency, a splendid program of music was rendered by Prof. Ed. Kimball, the audience expressing delight at the tones and manipulation of the great

B. H. Goddard gave interesting facts onnected with the tabernacle and emple both of their building and dimensions. The party then boarded the train for Saltair, and many of the visitors availed themselves of the opportunity for a dip in the famous waters. Afterward a delicious banquet was served on the lower floor of the pavilion, under the direction of Miss Lucy Van Cott, three tables being laid and reaching half the length of the great hall. These were decorated with sweet peas in every labels and rescribed a presty every shade and presented a pretty appearance. Mrs. E. B. Wells presid-ed as toast mistress in her usual happy style expressing in her opening speech the desire of Utah to be at peace with the world, and good will of its people toward all mankind.

JOHN HENRY SMITH'S WELCOME. She introduced John Henry Smith who said in substance that the peo-ple of Utah had founded a common-wealth were people of all nations could strike hands with brothers and sisters, nearly every language having its representatives in the state. He welcomed the visitors in the name of a people who loved liberty and ex-tended the hand of fellowship and love to people of all creeds. We have among us he said, noble men and women who delight to greet you as such, and hoped that reciprocal pleasure and good will would attend the distinguish-

MISS JANES RESPONDS.

Mrs. Wells called next upon Miss Janes, president of the British Council of Women who said that in their long journey from the Atlantic to the Pacific they had passed through many scenes of contrast, and nothing more striking than that offered in the des-ert through which they had just passed and this beautiful city.

She rejoiced that the people of these vast tracts and different localities were being drawn together in the association furnished by the great national and international councils. To her the journey had surplied and she believed to all, not a lesson in the differences of the achievements of the state in industry and art, but of the oneness of humanity, and in ending said that she desired to express on behalf of the British Council of Wo-behalf of the British Council of Women the gratitude to these women of Utah for their warm welcome.

Rabbi Charles Freund was the next speaker and having for his toast the "Jewish Idea of Women" said that the women are revered by the Jewish people as inspirations for all things great and good; and any people who held this ideal of women stood for a high civilization. The city may have its commercial and other business gatherings, but nothing can be of such value to the community as a gather value to the community as a gather-ing such as this. He wished the delegation Godspeed on its homeward way, and hoped that they all might have pleasant memories of the visit.

FRAU MARIE STRITT.

Frau Marie Stritt, president of the German Woman's congress, expressed her sincere thanks for the warm hospitality accorded the party. She said that a succession of wonder had met them from shore to shore, on their way to the west, and that new wonders were now meeting them on their way back. One of the most delightful experiences was this coming to Salt Lake, where they met not only to sait Lake, where they met not only hospitality but personal friends. "Some of you were in Berlin." she said, "and we remember that your Mrs. Horne who is now at Seattle was pointed out among us as a wonder. There we said, is a woman member of parliament, the first to act as such in any ment, the first to act as such in any country, and it was of much more interest to us because it was Utah which had given her this privilege. EFFECTIVE SPEAKERS.

Madame Popelin, president of the Belgian Council of Women, made one of the most effective speeches of the evening, though she expressed herself with the greatest difficulty in English. She had at last to make recourse to French for adequate utterance of her feeling, yet the enthusiastic spirit in which she voiced her appreciation of the hospitalities and of the scenes which they had enjoyed in Salt Lake, interpreted itself. The sunset, the stars coming out one by one in the wonderinterpreted itself. The sunset, the stars coming out one by one in the wonderful sky, made a scene she would never forget. During the long, dusty ride from Seattle, the question had come to them: "What can compensate us for this discomfort? Salt Lake had answered that question generously to every heart. This is our compensation."

Froken Kroeg of Norway, president of the Norwegian Council of Women, said that her specialty in speaking was for suffrage; but in Utah she had no chance for this as the women already have won it.

"Our men gave us the franchise"

"Our men gave us the franchise," interrupted Mrs. Wells.

John Henry Smith said that in connection with this subject he would say that he was chairman of the constitutional convention which made woman's franchise possible in Utah.

SWEDISH BARONESS.

Baroness von Platin of Sweden, representing the Swedish Council of Women, spoke feelingly of the welcome given them, and also appreciatively of the program in the Tabernacle. She said she was sure where all were working for good purposes, only harmony could be the outcome.

Miss Fries of Holland spoke humor Miss Fries of Holland spoke humorously of their trip across the continent, and especially the visit to Salt Lake. "When we wrote home that our large body of women were all to come to Salt Lake they said, 'You will never get away from that place.' We can tell them now, however, that we had no difficulty in passing through. She said that she was not so good a speaker as she was a dancer, and if she had her national costume she would rather dance than make a speech. She aldance than make a speech. She al-luded to the Dutch sources of Ameri-can ancestry, and spoke of Roosevelt as a typical descendant whom their people regarded with pride.

ITALY REPRESENTED.

The Marchesa Beauvon del Monte spoke for the Italian Council of Wo-men and said that the sunset she had seen on the Great Salt lake had never been surpassed by any she had wit-nessed in Italy. She had always heard much of the hospitality of the American people, and now had had good oppressed special pleasure in Salt Lake's reception.

The program of toasts ended with s short poem by Mrs. Ruth M. Fox, ex-pressing the motto of the National Council, "Lead Kindly Light," and bringing its sentiment into the lines of

It being nearly midnight, the program was brought to an end. Mrs. Wells making a closing speech in which the expressed the hope that only the pleasantest memories should be taken away by the visitors. The committees accompanied their guests to the train where final farewells were taken, all pronouncing the experience one of the nost pleasurable and interesting of Many interesting bits were picked up from individuals among the distinguished party. The Baroness von Pla-tin of Sweden, said with much pride that the Swedish government had made an appropriation of 3,000 crowns to de-fray the expenses of the two women delegates to the Quinquennial at Canada. She said she believed this was the first governmental recognition of the importance of these great gatherings and that the Swedish women were very proud of the honor. The baroness is "Miss" Von Platin, and says that it is only abroad that the unmarried women of her country assume their titles: She spoke of the important work be-ing accomplished along humanitarian lines in Sweden, and has herself been much interested in the settlement work.

She has been sent twice to England to investigate the settlement work in the east end, and said that King Ed-ward had given a generous fund for the same work in Sweden. The baroness is the author of a biographical work, the life of Henry Stead, and also of expressions upon social questions. Miss Sadie American, president of the Jewish Council of Women arrived from Colorado yesterday in time to take part in the entertainment. She spoke ap-preciatively of the kind welcome given her here at her visit of several years ago, and said that President Snow had laced at her disposition a special train to Saltair on which 60 visitors went out o the resort, and that other hospital-ties, also, were green in her memory. Among the distinguished guests present from whom the limited time pre-vented expression, were, Lady Martin of Scotland, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Grannis, president of the National Christian league; Miss Marion B. Blackie of Scotland, Sadie American, and many others. A number of Utah women, also, who had been listed to respond to toasts

P. J. MORAN SAYS THINGS TO BOARD

Contractor Declares He is Being Made a Punching Bag for Aggrieved Members.

HIS PAVING BILL NOT PAID.

Squabble Between Engineer and Public Works Committee Assigned as Rea-Son for Non-payment of Contract,

Patrick J. Moran, the official contractor, talked out in class last night when the boar dof public works held up his estimates submitted on the resurfacing of Main street. The board refused to allow the estimates because Moran failed to carry out an order issued by the board of public works held up his pansion joints between the sidewalk and the curb. Moran followed the advice of City Engineer Kelsey and Mayor Bransford, ignoring the board, and now he is being punished. The board decided last night that unless Moran placed the expansion joints between the sidewalk and curb on Main street that he would have to go to court to have the matter adjusted.

The resolution was carried which was introduced by C. D. Rooklidge last week refusing to pay Moran until he complied with the order of the board. which was in accordance with the plans and specifications. Moran will have to abide by this, the board says. He can elther tear up the sidewalk and leave an expansion joint between it and the curb, or the board will hold out enough money to pay for the work at the expense of the contractor.

Moran called attention to the clause n his contract that the opinion of the city engineer on technicalities shall be final. Chairman H. G. McMillan in-formed the contractor that the expansion joint was not a technicality, but called for in the plans.

CALLS IT SPITE WORK,

"Just because you fellows and the mayor and the city engineer can't get along together, you decide to take your spite out on the contractors. ""We get along all right, Mr. Moran,"

Chairman McMillan replied.
"You can't tell me anything about that, I have been here too often. Under that, I have been here too often. Under my contract I believe that I have followed it to the letter and I have completed the work and think that it is only fair that I should get my money. I have submitted two estimates that amount to more than $35,000 and you are unwilling to allow me any of it because of this petty dispute between yourselves and the city engineer. If I had stopped work when the board ordered me to you wouldn't have had dered me to you wouldn't have had the job completed for some time to come. I have done my work according to contract and you have not paid me cent for it and I don't think you should take any such arbitrary action as that. There are no plans or speci-fications in the contract regarding the sidewalk, as that was nothing but patchwork. There is nothing in it about expansion joints."

HOW TROUBLE AROSE.

This statement ended the controversy and the board laid Moran's estimates on the board laid Moran's estimates on the table. The trouble arose when City Engineer Kelsey, backed up by Mayor Bransford, countermanded an order issued to Moran on Main street. Moran was carrying out the orders of the board in placing expansion joints between the sidewalk and the curb. When Kelsey saw whot Moran was When Kelsey saw what Moran was doing he got the mayor and they went down and ordered Moran to place the sidewalk flush up against the curb. He followed out the instructions of the city engineer and the mayor, despite the fact that the board ordered him several times to carry on the work as it had directed, which was according to the plans and specifications. The board was not ready to take up Moran's bill of $20,400 for repairing the wooden stave outlet sewer pipe. The reports of the inspectors are being itemized. The board is willing to pay Moran for the work of re-inforcing the pipe under the rallroad tracks, but it claims no responsibility for any of the other work. This work under the tracks will cost, it is estimated, about $6,000, and that is all the board probill will probably come up at the next meeting of the board.

Humanitarian Wants Troughs Placed in Streets for Horses

The "News" today received the fol-owing communication:

In providing drinking fountains upon In providing drinking fountains upon the streets for the thirsty wayfarer no fault can be found, for with the pure mountain water running in the modern sanitary fountains to be placed in twenty locations in the business district no better relief from the oppressing heat of the sun beating upon the pavements can be found. But something has been forgotten. The free dom of this city from mad dogs is undoubtedly due to the fact that water is provided for them in the ditches throughout the town. But what of the horses?

In one location in the entire business portion of the city is a drinking place for them provided. This is the fountain presented to the city and placed near the City and County building quite a distance from the main to the troughs in the town the two eager they are for the water.
